Subject: New Standalone Email Notification

Description: Effective February 20, 2006, a new email notification will be added for Standalone DSL when the data line portion of the order has a due date established. This date is important if work up to the network interface device is required – i.e. NID needs to be installed. In certain locations, the end user may need to be available for access to their premises (telephone closet, multi-tenant building, etc.). This notification is available in the East only.
